

Whose Mind Is It Anyway? John's story

A documentary made in mid-1990s that had a tremendous impact at the time when screened on TV. It is the (true) story of a black guy who thought he was related to the Queen and became caught up in the mental health system. It is now virtually a cult film that has a powerful message about psychiatry and about 'sectioning'—and about being racialized as 'black'.